

Dana Avi-Isaac, MA Candidate and teaching assistant, the Department of Environmental Studies, Porter School of the Environment and Earth Sciences, Tel Aviv University. Her research combines environmental and bioethical criticism of COVID-19 masks and controversy analysis. She co-authored papers on bioethics of COVID policies; member of "The professional Ethics Front" and Green Leaf (legalization) Party.

Bilha Kreisberg, RN, MA, is a Senior Nurse and faculty member of Hadassah medical centre, school of Nursing and a Member of Hadassah's Institutional Ethics Committee. She is a graduate student at the Department of Philosophy and Bioethics, Bar-Illan University, working on her thesis re "Testing of the tension between solidarity and individual freedom during an epidemic; bioethical challenges in reality of uncertainty". She is former Head of the clinical research unit, Heart Institute, Hadassah Medical Centre.

Dr. Daniel Mishori, Ph.D., is a social, academic and environmental activist. He is a Senior Facult at the Department of Environmental Studies, Porter School of the Environment and Earth Sciences, Tel Aviv University. He is formerly the chairperson: the Israel Bicycle Association & the Coordinating Forum of Junior Academic Organizations (Israel). He is formerly, head of the professional team, "Water Keepers" (of Israel). He is also a founding member, "The Professional Ethics Front". He specializes in bioethics, environmental ethics, business ethics, controversy-analysis in science and medicine, epistemology and body-consciousness research. He is an expert in biohacking and integrative health (Firmness: posture, breathing, movement, meditation). He is a teacher of Yoga and Martial Arts (Tai Chi, Kung Fu). He is the author of Firmness (Firmeza): Meditations on First Philosophy and Environmental Ethics (Hebrew, 2018). He was a candidate for the Knesset (Israeli Parliament) on behalf of the Green Leaf (cannabis legalization) Party at the November 2022 elections.