

About the Authors

Layne Hartsell, PhD is a Research Professor at the Center for Ethics in Science and Technology, Department of Philosophy, Chulalongkorn University, in Bangkok, Thailand and a Research Fellow at The Asia Institute, Convergence and 3E Program, Seoul, South Korea. He has held teaching/research positions at Mahidol University Siriraj Medical Center, Bangkok; Sungkyunkwan University, South Korea; and the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Virginia. His PhD degree is an honorary doctorate and he is currently working on two other PhDs that will be completed this year and the next.

Emanuel Pastreich, PhD is the president of The Asia Institute. He serves in the Council on East Asian Studies, Yale University, New Haven and the Academic Council 特邀高级研究员 at CCG (Center for China and Globalization) 全球化智库, Beijing. He graduated with a major of Chinese literature from Yale's Department of East Asian Languages & Literatures in 1987. He has an M.A. in comparative literature from the University of Tokyo (1992) and a Ph.D. in comparative Asian literature from Harvard University (1998).

Alexander Krabbe, MD is a Research Fellow at The Asia Institute, Convergence and 3E Program, Seoul, South Korea. He is affiliated with the Community Hospital Havelhoehe in cooperation with the Charité University Hospital, Berlin Medical Center. He is a peace activist, a citizen journalist and medical doctor who engages with a broad range of citizens in Europe to discuss critical issues in international relations. He has worked with the Asia Institute for the last four years and is preparing for the establishment of the Asia Institute in Berlin.

Rhoderick John S. Abellanosa, M.P.S., M.A. is currently connected with Sacred Heart School - Ateneo de Cebu as Faculty Development Officer and Cluster Head for the Humanities and Social Sciences. He has Master's degrees in Political Science and Philosophy from the University of San Carlos. He also studied Theology in the Seminario Mayor de San Carlos. He was a Graduate Research Fellow of the National University of Singapore's Asia Research Institute. His areas of interest are in Politics and Religion, Church and State Relations, and Political Theory.

Ranie Villaver, PhD is an assistant professor in the Department of Philosophy at the University of San Carlos, Cebu City. He received his PhD in philosophy from the University of New South Wales in Sydney, Australia. His doctoral thesis, on Zhuangzi's scepticism and Yangist ideas, was supervised by Dr Karyn Lai. He has a paper published in Asian Philosophy (Routledge) and a forthcoming publication in the International Journal of Asia Pacific Studies (Universiti Sains Malaysia Press). He has served as reviewer for Dao: A Journal of Comparative Philosophy (Springer).

Daniel Mishori, PhD is a social, academic and environmental activist. He is a senior faculty member of the Department of Environmental Studies, Porter School of the Environment and Earth Sciences, Tel Aviv University. He is the former chairperson of the Israel Bicycle Association & the Coordinating Forum of Junior Academic Organizations (Israel). Currently, he is the head of the professional team, "Water Keepers" (of Israel). He specializes in Bioethics, Environmental Ethics, Business Ethics, Controversy-analysis in Science and Medicine, Epistemology and Body-consciousness research. He is an expert in biohacking and integrative health (Firmness: posture, breathing, movement, meditation). Also, he is a teacher of Yoga and Martial Arts (Tai Chi, Kung Fu) and the author of Firmness (Firmeza): Meditations on First Philosophy and Environmental Ethics (2018).

Juichiro Tanabe, PhD is an adjunct lecturer at Kumamoto University, Keio University and Waseda University, Japan. His research field is peace and conflict studies. He is an author of “Buddhism and Peace Theory: Exploring a Buddhist Inner Peace” (International Journal of Peace Studies, November 2016), “Beyond liberal peace: Critique of liberal Peacebuilding and Exploring a Post-liberal Hybrid Model of Peacebuilding for a More Humane World” (Social Ethics Society Journal of Applied Philosophy, April 2019) and “Buddhism and Post-Liberal Peace: Creating a Holistic Peace Model by Connecting Liberal Peace and Buddhist Peace as a Foundation for Sustainable Peace” (Journal of Human Security Studies, March 2020).

Raymundo R. Pavo, PhD is currently the chair of the Department of Social Sciences, University of the Philippines Mindanao. His research interests include philosophical methods, Collingwood studies, gender and development, practical theologies, and urban night markets. In development work, he has served as consultant to the International Labour Organization (ILO), as evaluator of Ban Toxics! and external partner of Interface Development Interventions Inc. (IDIS). He is a member of the National Gender Resource Pool (NGRP) of the Philippine Commission on Women (PCW). He graduated with an AB in Philosophy degree from the University of San Carlos, Magna Cum Laude. He obtained an MA in Philosophy from Katholieke Universiteit Leuven, Belgium, Cum Laude. He also finished his PhD in Development Studies from the University of the Philippines Los Banos.

Asuna Yoshizawa is a PhD student at the Kyoto University in Area Studies. Her research interests include Muslim-Christian relationships and grassroots peacebuilding in Southern Philippines. She has lived in Tagbilaran City since September 2019 with her family. Her main published work is “The Arts of Everyday Peacebuilding: Cohabitation, Conversion, and Intermarriage of Muslims and Christians in the Southern Philippines” in Southeast Asian Studies, Vol. 9, No. 1, pp. 67–97 (April 2020).

Dennis M. Bautista, M.A.T. obtained his Bachelor of Arts major in Classical Philosophy at the Sacred Heart Seminary, Palo Leyte. A College Instructor in the College of Arts and Sciences – Social Science Unit of Leyte Normal University, Tacloban City. While working, he pursued his graduate studies and earned his Master of Arts in Teaching Social Sciences. Granted a university scholarship and is now taking Doctor of Philosophy major in Social Science Research, in the same university. He likewise presents his research works in various conferences both local and international.

Guiraldo C. Fernandez, Jr., PhD is the Director of Instruction and Evaluation of Visayas State University Main Campus at Baybay City, Leyte. He graduated with the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Education and Master of Arts in Philosophy from the University of San Carlos in Cebu City. He acquired his Bachelor’s degree in Philosophy from San Carlos Seminary College, also at Cebu City, and has been in the academe for more than twenty years now. He is currently involved in environmental conservation and environmental education research and extension projects as part of his work load at Visayas State University. He was awarded a fellowship research grant at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C, USA in the fall of 2019.

Marlito Jose M. Bande, Dr.sc.agr. is the current Director of the Institute of Tropical Ecology and Environmental Management at Visayas State University. He acquired his Doctor of Science in Agriculture Science at the Georg August University of Göttingen in the city of Göttingen, Germany. He is presently the project leader of VSU’s environmental research and extension projects in collaboration with the Environmental Leadership Training Initiatives (ELTI) of Yale University’s School of Forestry and Environmental Studies.

Al Flores Quillope, PhD is the Director of the Peace Institute at the Notre Dame of Marbel University. He is also a university professor who handles ethics, philosophy, and psychology classes, both in the undergrad and the graduate levels. He finished a Master's degree in Philosophy and a Doctoral degree in Psychology at the Ateneo de Davao University. He has presented researches on peace studies here and abroad. His paper, "The Ethics of Peace," is forthcoming in the book, Ethics in Contemporary Philippine Society, edited by Dr. Christopher Ryan Maboloc.

Menelito P. Mansueto, M.A. has taken doctoral units under the academic program PhD in Media Studies at the College of Mass Communications, University of the Philippines–Diliman. He obtained his Master of Arts in Philosophy, as well as his Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy from Holy Name University, Tagbilaran City. He has taught philosophy and social sciences subjects at FEU-Diliman and UST-España. He is currently a full-time assistant professor at Colegio de San Juan de Letran. He has published some papers on Philippine politics and the radical leadership of President Rodrigo Duterte.

Noe M. Santillan, M.Ed. is an Assistant Professor of Philosophy and Social Studies in the University of the Philippines Cebu. He earned his baccalaureate degree in Arts major in philosophy from San Carlos Seminary College, and his Master's in Education major in Social Studies from UP Professional Schools as UP Presidential Scholar. He is the spokesperson of Movement against Tyranny - Cebu. Also, he's a volunteer for the Cebu Archdiocesan Commission on Social Advocacies, and the Save Our Schools Network.

Anton Heinrich Rennesland, M.A. obtained his MA and AB Philosophy degrees from the University of Santo Tomas, Manila. He is currently a faculty of UST and a member of the Friedrich

Nietzsche Society. His research interests include Nietzsche, Sloterdijk, Comparative Philosophy, and the Anthropocene.

Victor John M. Loquias is one of the first graduates of AB Philosophy of the Philosophy Department of Ateneo de Naga University where he is also now currently affiliated. He earned his MA in Philosophy from Ateneo de Manila University and is currently finishing his doctorate in Philosophy at the University of Santo Tomas, Manila. He researches in the areas of Critical Theory, Critical Pedagogy, Philosophy of Education, Indigenous Philosophy, Filipino and Bikol Philosophy. He is engaged in the translation of philosophical and literary texts and writes as well philosophical papers in Bikol language.

Beaujorne Sirad A. Ramirez is writing his thesis for the degree of Master of Arts in Philosophy from the University of the Philippines, Diliman. He obtained his Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy from the Philippine Dominican Center of Institutional Studies. He teaches in the Immaculate Conception Academy in Green Hills, San Juan City. He holds a license in teaching as certified by the Professional Regulation Commission (PRC) in the Philippines.